The Concluding Paragraph

a) Restate your thesis for the reader. Do not simply copy your thesis here.

Through the character of Jim, Mark Twain clearly shows slavery to be an immoral and evil institution.

b) Restate first supporting paragraph idea

The novel’s action on the Mississippi results directly from Jim’s attempts to free himself from the chains of slavery.

c) Restate second supporting paragraph idea

Jim’s true bond of friendship with Huck further illustrates the possibilities of equality between the races and the power of embracing diversity.

d) Restate third supporting paragraph idea

Twain places Jim in a position of moral superiority in order to again demonstrate the power of all men, not just those of white skin.

e) Explain the importance of your thesis. Basically answer the question “So what?”

Twain’s perspective on the slavery issue obviously must be one purpose for the novel’s writing. Slavery so clearly seen as an abomination can not be an accident. Twain’s agenda with this tale transcends simple storytelling and delivers a message of human equality and the ills of an unbalanced social structure.

Through the character of Jim, Mark Twain clearly shows slavery to be an immoral and evil institution. The novel’s action on the Mississippi results directly from Jim’s attempts to free himself from the chains of slavery. Jim’s true bond of friendship with Huck further illustrates the possibilities of equality between the races and the power of embracing diversity. Twain places Jim in a position of moral superiority in order to again demonstrate the power of all men, not just those of white skin. Twain’s perspective on the slavery issue obviously must be one purpose for the novel’s writing. Slavery so clearly seen as an abomination can not be an accident. Twain’s agenda with this tale transcends simple storytelling and delivers a message of human equality and the ills of an unbalanced social structure.
a) Restate your thesis for the reader. Do not simply copy your thesis here.

________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________

b) Restate first supporting paragraph idea

________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________

b) Restate second supporting paragraph idea

________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________

d) Restate third supporting paragraph idea

________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________

e) Explain the importance of your thesis. Basically answer the question “So what?”

________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________

Your entire paragraph:

________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________
________________________________________________________________________